President's report: Bob Collins

Thanks to Covid19, again not much is happening on the paddling front, particularly with racing. As you now know, our shed is closed until further notice and I have been keeping Sport and Recreation up to date with the actions we are taking to comply with ACT Government restrictions.

A few of us have been paddling on Lake Ginninderra and Richard Fox at Lake Tuggeranong - in his words: "Lake Tuggeranong might be a tad manky but it's a godsend to me!"

We are still working on finalising our pontoon replacement and have now received approvals from Transport Canberra & City Services and the NCA. I have also been keeping the Grants area of Sport & Recreation updated and am hopeful that a grant will come our way when applications open.

As the manufacturer, Marine Dock Systems, in Sydney is a bit reluctant to produce the kits and maintain that it would be less expensive if we made them in Canberra, we have decided that Shane and Scott will construct them in Canberra from the Marine Dock Systems detailed plans. Marine Dock Systems has agreed supply all brackets and fixings.

Our AGM is due sometime in September 2021, unfortunately, due to the Covid19 restrictions, we will need to wait until lockdown ends.

Stay safe

Bob

Club news - AGM

The club will be holding our AGM in late September (date will be confirmed once we know what is happening with our lockdown). As 4 of our committee members will be finishing up, we have been 'inviting' members to volunteer for positions and great to say, we've had some success. We have new volunteers for the Treasurer position, Secretary (or Ordinary member), Safety Officer and Editor as well as our current President, Vice President, Boat Captain and one Ordinary Member, Canoe Polo Convenor, Marathon Convenor, Web Master and Coaches Rep.

So who are we looking for:

a second Ordinary Member (or Secretary)– it would be great if this person came from Canoe Polo or one of our younger members (our committee will be made up of mostly retired or semi retired Flatwater paddlers, so if we may be stuck in our ways a bit!!)

Time Trial Convenor – while our Wednesday evening time trials have been fairly poorly attended over the last year or 2, we believe its important to have something in place. We need someone to run it. Its not an onerous job, but requires someone to take charge weekly.

Patricia

Boat Captain – Caring for our fleet.

BGCC has a club fleet of 50+ boats: K1, K2, TK1, TK2, C1, C2, long rec, touring, junior kayaks, polo bats and SUPs. These boats are available on a first come, first served basis 365 days a year, unless they've been booked generally for a competition.

Compare this, for example, with a Sydney club we closely challenge for marathon series honours most years. According to their website they have just 17 boats which must be pre-booked and PAID FOR (minimum $10 per day for a club activity or $20 for personal use). Their senior membership is only $5 p.a. less than ours AND there's an additional charge to participate in their club time trials.

Although we have a substantial cohort of paddlers who own their own boats, it's surprising how many of these will jump in a club boat at some time during the year: when their boat is in for repairs, to paddle something more stable in winter or a race, when competing in the marathon series doubles round, or just to try something different.

For anyone who doesn't own a boat, the club fleet is their way of getting on the water.

Given all of the above, it's disappointing when boats are damaged. Accidents do happen – boats can be heavy and awkward, and private boats still get dings and scrapes – but it's incumbent on all of us to take care, be aware of things like posts and bollards, and generally treat club boats well.

A real-life example of the inconvenience and cost of not looking after a boat follows.

The club's Vajda Voyageur cost $3300 two years ago. A few months ago, its back deck received what must have been a significant whack. Someone probably thought they were doing the right thing by putting a piece of clear chine tape over the main damage, but the radial cracks extended well out across the deck. The boat continued to be used – “but the damage was on the deck, so hey, it wasn't in the water so what's the matter?”

By the time I happened to notice the damage (which wasn't reported to me, and I couldn't find a note on the sign-in sheets) the deck had become soaked and required significant repair – the story follows:

Oops, forgot to take a photo of the original damage, but this photo shows the amount of sanding required to remove the damaged gel coat and expose the sodden materials underneath.

Drying the foam and glass in the damaged area on a Canberra winter's day – a bit of sun and a heat gun.

Three layers of fiberglass layed-up with epoxy resin and peel ply to take out excess resin and any trapped air.

Glass work sanded back as close to level as possible.

Bogged with filler, ready to sand and repeat until smooth.

Taped up and undercoated. Then tape and paper get removed to sand and prep for painting.

4-5 layers of grey gel coat, then the blue pin stripe will be taped up, sanded and painted with 3-4 coats.

Then it's all sanded with 800 and 1200 grit wet & dry sandpaper, and then polished.

After all this, which took a couple of weeks to finish with all the waiting required between stages, the Voyageur was returned to its rack in the shed. Oh, and the large chips to its bow and stern have also been repaired.

All this work doesn't come cheap, despite Scotty's repair rates being very reasonable and his experience and equipment meaning he is extremely efficient and thorough. As is the case for many things, it's almost easier to build a boat from scratch than it is to have to go through all these steps.

So the moral of the story – please take care. Be aware of anything you might knock a boat against (including the ground). Ask for help if you need it, especially if a boat is wet and slippery and/or you're tired after a paddle.

Our fleet gives members tremendous fun and exercise, and it deserves to be taken care of. If you do notice any repairs needed to boats, please send me an email via the link on the club website or to swimming.fast@yahoo.com.au

Canoe Polo update

Last weekend we held the first of our two session Women's Come & Try Canoe Polo course. Advertised through the Women's Adventure ACT page, we were aiming for participants with an existing interest in the outdoors, and were extremely impressed when we discovered they had all tried kayaking at some point, including an ex white water guide and an ex slalom paddler. With Adam Hofmeyer and Toni Harmer coaching the class, and Jess Harmer and I their eager assistants, we had 12 women attending, with 13-14 expected for the second session, which has unfortunately been delayed as a result of the lockdown. The course aims to develop basic ball and boat skills, as well as an introductory understanding of the game and rules, to a level that they will be able to join our weekly games whilst we're still in the pool, as well as bigger competitions such as the Canberra Invitational, which is scheduled for early November.

It was excellent to see so many people try our sport, and we were quite surprised by how high the competency level was. We can't wait to host the second session once lockdown lifts, as well as run further courses. If you would like to come and try polo, please reach out as newcomers are always welcome, and it's definitely wise to try it whilst we're still in the pool!

PaddleNSW Image of the year

I'm not too sure the Jeremy and Tom are all that happy about being described as 'well into their senior years' but they were certainly enjoying the paddle.

*Not long after the announcement, Ian Wrenford, being the stand-out and amazing bloke that he is, notified PNSW that the actual clicker for that winning image was Tom Holloway. Check out PaddleNSW Facebook page to find out more.....

Lockdown blues? Get ready to cheer on the Paralympians!

The para-canoe's get their chance to shine on the world stage, scheduled to start on Thursday 2nd September, with semi's and finals on the 3rd and 4th. But there is plenty of other action on offer with the games kicking off on the 24th August with the opening ceremony, and events starting from the 25th.

We used to joke that the Olympics were the test event, to make sure everything was running smoothly before the real games started (or perhaps we weren't actually joking 😊).

In terms of spectator sports, I would highly recommend following the Wheelchair Rugby. Out of all the events I did get an opportunity to watch during my time in London and Rio, this was certainly a highlight for me.
